

Helen Coltrinari

Helen Coltrinari is an adult educator, workshop facilitator, and education consultant.

Seconded to TVOntario, she managed teams for web site development and interactive on-line courses. She also produced and hosted a number of video series, designed prototype workshops in effective teaching strategies using television and multimedia, and developed short courses in adult education and distance learning strategies, using the latest instructional design techniques. This work was done in both English and French.

She has written teachers guides and developed classroom-ready resources for both core French and immersion classrooms.

Ms. Coltrinari holds an MA in French (University of Toronto) and M.Ed. from OISE. She is a published author and she teaches at the graduate level at Brock University, Faculty of Education.

She is a past president CASLT/ACPLS and sits on a variety of Boards of Directors. She is currently the President of French for the Future/Le français pour l'avenir.

Helen will be presenting "Reading, viewing and doing !" in Session E8.